"Peace is a vision that should be achieved in personal, social and international context. On all these levels peace means more than the absence of violence and war. An all encompassing understanding of peace always contains a little freedom and human rights, social justice and maintaining the natural environment. Such a culture of peace can be attained by practicing compassion, honesty and non-violence. Let us strive for this - everywhere!"

Peter Rühe, founder of the GandhiServe Foundation, Berlin